Why roam?

Looking for a hotel can be an overwhelming process! Thousands of reviews to wade through, serval different searching and booking websites, you can search for hours and not find something that stands out to you as an excellent place to stay.

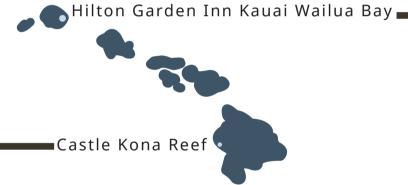

To show just how difficult hotel reviews are to go through we took a data set from Data World of 1,000 hotels reviews (https://data.world/datafiniti/hotel-reviews).

34355 Lines of reviews

With 1,000 hotels in data set that is an average of 34 reviews per hotel

126 Reviews for hotels in Hawaii

4 Hawaiian Properties

Reviews

1 star - 5%

2 star - 10%

3 star - 15% 4 star - 26%

5 star - 42%

Reviews

1 star - 3%

2 star - 15% 3 star - 23%

4 star - 38%

5 star - 20%

2 star review:

"This is a old property, the rooms are remodeled but windows doors and ac units are very old. Some rooms not to clean already. Restaurant ok and Internet is good."

1 star review:

"Hotel was filthy and unclean.
We had to clean room before we could get into bed. Everthing was covered in dust. Garden view was view of a wall."

5 star review:

"Awesome, clean, and convenient. Great ocean views"

5 star review:

"Completely refurbished very modern and quiet rooms with comfortable beds and big flat screen TV with lots of channels. Restaurant is open air but insideand has a range of items and price ranges to suit every ones budget."

What's happening here?

As you can see no rating at either hotel has a clear winner, and reviews are varied. There are so many variables that go into a review; requirements and experiences of visitors drive reviews, if someone had a bad experience they are more likely to need to want vent about it. Changes to the hotel overtime also affect reviews, the Hilton went through a remodel, the 2-star review probably before and the 5-star review after.

Everyone has their preferences, Roam wants to cater to yours.